

Late Return Procedure

Delays when operating in the mountains are common due to weather, experience of the group, fitness of clients, terrain, injury and engagement with other mountain users.

Prior to the activity taking place an emergency contact for the party will be informed of the following information.

- Phone numbers within the group
- Intended location/route
- Plans for the day
- Number in party
- Meeting points and Car parking
- Expected time of return to cars
- On multi-day expeditions/ overnight camps the emergency contact will receive contact at a pre-arranged time each evening to let them know that the group is safe and well.
